Science, & Immersive Technology

The Opportunity

The Arizona State University (ASU) Edson College of Nursing and Health Innovation invites applications for the Grace Center Professor for Innovation in Clinical Education, Simulation Science & Immersive Technology at the rank of Associate Professor/Professor tenured/tenure track. We are specifically seeking applicants who have expertise, scholarship, research experience, and funding in innovative interprofessional education, simulation science, and use of virtual and augmented reality.

ASU Leadership

President - Dr. Michael M. Crow is an educator, knowledge enterprise architect, science and technology policy scholar and higher education leader. He became the sixteenth president of Arizona State University in July 2002 and has spearheaded ASU's rapid and groundbreaking transformative evolution into one of America's best public metropolitan research universities. Under Dr. Crow's leadership, ASU has established twenty-five new transdisciplinary schools, including the School of Earth and Space Exploration, the School for the Future of Innovation in Society and the School of Human Evolution and Social Change, and launched trailblazing multidisciplinary initiatives including the Biodesign Institute, sixteen use-inspired research centers focused on biomedicine and health, sustainability and security; the Julie Ann Wrigley Global Institute of Sustainability and the nation's first School of Sustainability, which advance research, education and business practices at the intersection of nature and the made environment. Dr. Crow previously served as executive vice provost and professor of science and technology policy at Columbia University. He has advised the U.S. Departments of State, Commerce, and Energy, as well as defense and intelligence agencies, and serves as Chairman of In-Q-Tel. He is a former member of the National Advisory Council on Innovation and Entrepreneurship, and has advised several nation-states on matters of knowledge enterprise development.

Dean – Dr. Judith Karshmer is dean and professor of Arizona State University's Edson College of Nursing and Health Innovation. She came to ASU in 2018 from the School of Nursing and Health Professions at the University of San Francisco (USF), where she is Dean Emerita. Dr. Karshmer's focus is on expanding the global footprint of the college through academic practice partnerships that promote the college's research agenda while embedding students and faculty in the community in meaningful ways, an approach she pioneered at USF. She was also instrumental in developing the first doctorate of nursing program in California and establishing an "evidence-based" education model that challenges students and faculty to think creatively to produce better health solutions and outcomes. She is a fellow of the American Academy of Nursing (FAAN) and was named "Most Influential Women in Business in the Bay Area 'Forever Influential Honor Roll' in 2016. She is on the editorial board of the Journal of Psychosocial Nursing and Mental Health Services.

About Edson College

Edson College is part of a vibrant and diverse research, education, and practice community at ASU, named this year by U.S. News and World Report for the seventh year in a row as #1 in Innovation among all universities in the United States. Edson College offers a rich interprofessional research and teaching environment with a unique and growing transdisciplinary Ph.D. program, and Centers encompassing health promotion and disease prevention, health equity science, global health, interprofessional practice, education, and research, and aging. The College recently received a 25-million-dollar gift to name the College and establish the Grace Center for Innovation in Clinical Education & Simulation to advance innovation in education, simulation, and immersive technology, and coalesce our academic, knowledge, and learning enterprises. We take research from the “bench to the bedside,” and care delivery from the acute setting to the clinic and into the home. Emphasis in the Grace Center is on innovation, entrepreneurship, and promoting unique and transformational models of education, research on best practices in nursing pedagogy, and nursing care delivery using simulation and immersive technology.

The Faculty

Edson College faculty collaborate across professions, other colleges, and universities and have current or recent funding from NIH, PCORI, the National Center for Interprofessional Practice and Education, HRSA, the Veterans Administration, the Josiah Macy Jr. Foundation, and several other local, regional, and national organizations. Edson College faculty also collaborate with a wide-ranging group of community and healthcare organizations to improve the economic, social, and cultural health and vitality of shared local, state, national, and global communities. Examples of these organizations include Mayo Clinic, Phoenix Children’s Hospital, Banner Health, Dignity Health, HonorHealth, and the VA Medical Center.
